

Colorful Paper Chromatography

Discover how scientists use color to study materials, and make your own colorful artwork!

Colorful Chemistry Chromatography

Paper chromatography is a method to separate the parts of a mixture. In this activity, water moves through the paper, separating the different color inks in each marker. The inks contain a number of different molecules, each with unique characteristics such as size and solubility (ability to dissolve). Because

—
—
—

—